

How We Count

Stories and puzzles from the world of mathematics

Age
6+

ENGLISH
TEXT AVAILABLE

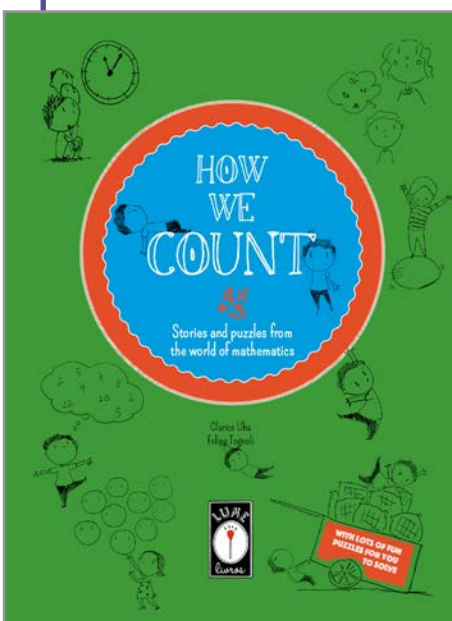

Do you think that math is complicated? Hard? Boring? Math gets a terrible reputation among kids (and many adults!), but it is one of the most fascinating things humans have ever explored.

In this book, kids will discover some of the highlights of math history, in a fun, accessible and yet challenging text, that will ask them to think by themselves and get in touch with the wonder and weirdness of the world of mathematics.

Jumping from content to practice, this book also has a lot of puzzles and games, exploring all the main concepts presented in the text. Readers and the entire family can play and exercise their math minds at the same time.

Written by Clarice Uba
Illustrated by Felipe Tognoli

16,8x24 cm • 116 pages
World rights available

Selling points

- With games and puzzles to exercise mathematical abilities while at play
- Full of “aha!” moments that will have readers engaged and thinking for themselves.
- A perfect companion for math classes and to help struggling students dive into the subject
- Researched, written and illustrated with a global audience in mind

